BROOKLYN loves her wayward ministers. She has Beecher, Talmage and J. Hyatt Smith, all of whom love to startle the cloth about once a week or oftener in the ordinary way, and now and then in imitation of a small church earthquake. Smith has just been elected to congress over! Chittenden, one of the princes of Gotham, and it is expected that he will rival Sam Cox as the jester in the house. He has no particular politics, but he believes in his own independent church, in the theatre and in going to heaven by the jolliest route he can find.

THE forty-seventh congress just chosen will not probably assemble until December, 1881-more than a year from this time. The present congress will hold one more session, meeting the first Monday in December and continuing till the 4th of March next, when its term and that of Mr. Hayes as president, will expire together, and the new executive be inaugurated. Matters, therefore, will jog along in the accustomed ruts for four months at least, and probably for the next eleven months. The new president, after being isaugurated in March, can convene the new congress in special session if he desires to, but it is not likely that he will do this, unless some extraordinary occasion for the step should arise.

BULLDOZING

As Practiced in the Pactory.

An editorial in the Irish World, of last week, on "Factory-Lord Bulldozers," says: The right of every citizen to speak and vote his convictions is as usual, and betrayed no indication the corner stone of American liberty. In so far as the republican party demands that the negro shall be secured in the exercise of the right of suffrage it stands on righteous ground.

But what holds true of the late chattel slave is equally true with regard to the existing factory slave. In practice, however, the self-righteous party of moral ideas has systematic. Enton's Successor. Terre Haute Gaz tte.

General Hawley is spoken of as the probable successor of Senator Eaton, from Connecticut. He has earned the place, and is a fair representative of the best element in his party. He is not of the Grant-Conkling-Logan st-ipe by a large majority, and would probably be more acceptable to the Gazette than to the stalwart republicans.

Republican Foreclosures.

New York Express. It is amusing to see the independent republicans puff themselves with wind, and exultantly declare that they gained the victory, and that Garfield is their man. They forget that Garfield was dead as a last year's skunk cabbage until Conkling and Grant and Logan stooped down and breathed life into his candidature, and they hold a mortgage on him they will not be slow to foreclose.

Garfield's Treason. Louisville Courier-Journal.

That Garfield's treason to the friend who made him his confidential and trusted representative at Chicago last June should now be openly confessed will not surprise anyone. The danger to come of confession is gone, the chance of longer concealment is past, and Garfield mry as well boast to Sherman of his treachery now, as Iago did to Othello when his damnable

"DAMN."

Is it an Oath? The Question of the Hour,

"Damn" as a noun substantive is an old regular word, used frequently by English writers down to the first part of the seventeenth century. We do not see why so ponderous a word has been dropped by lexicographers. In some places, as if we speak of how original sin lies heavy on us, it seems a most appropriate word. "We inherit, with Adam's nature, the dam n cleaving of it!" This use of the word came down to our American grandfather, and lasted even till the timewhen the continental currency was a dead loss. So came the expression "not worth a continental," "not worth a continental damn," or "dead loss." And for short, "not worth a damn"or bit of paper that was a dead loss! It is not to the credit of our lexicographers that they have not recognized this origin of a phrase peculiarly American, and that if "slang" at first, having a basis in fact, like a countless number of other words, it has been enrolled as a factor in our accepted language—as "gerrymandering" has been. The people did better than their writers of primers, grammars and dictionaries. Damn means a loss (in American parlance, as above, a worthless scrip.) Damnable, for its general meaning, signifies "worthy of severe censure." Only when used in a theological connection does it imply what Puritans suppose. It, most certainly, is not swearing. And, except by the imposition of the Puritan signification, it is not cursing. And yet we remember hearing people, using a phrase whose history they knew not, say, "I do not care a cuss"-meaning a curse.-Freeman Journal.

The republicans carried Ohio to be sure, says the Courier-Journal, but it is remarkable, in connection with that fact, that the vote of Ohio has increased in one year to the extent of 42,374. The vote of Octobe, 1879, was the largest ever cast in the state, being 669,179; yet without immigration 42,374 more voters were produced at the election this year. Ohio is a remarkable state for fecundity, but no other state could make 42,374 babies and voters all in one year. By what curious process did Ohio force twenty-one years into one little year of the lives of 42,374 persons?

A party of between twenty and thirty young ladies and gentlemen called at the residence of Marshal Deihl, East Wayne street, last evening and took the marshal's little daughter by surprise. The guests were entertained in a handsome manner, and an exceedingly pleasant evening was enjoyed by all.

Mr. "Johnny" Dalman, ex-trustee of Pleasant township, is in the city to-day. He denounces the communication that appeared in this week's Sunday Mail with reference to his war record, as a dastardly slander, and the writer of the article must have known that he was lying while the pen was in his hands. Mr. Dalman did splendid service during the war, and the insinuation that he shipped to Canada is as base as it is foundationless.

AMUSEMENTS.

A NEW OPERA.

Through the enterprise of some of our leading musicians, Mr. J. A. Butterfield, of Chicago, the eminent composer of the most successful opera ever written in American, (Belshazzar), has been induced to give the first performance of his new work entitled "Widow Glass, or a Romance of a Summer," in this city. This work is destined, in the judgment of the best critics who have seen the work, to meet with great success and to introduce a new feature in the way of operatic writing, as it is the first of what may be called comedy opera, which has been written. The work is purely American, both in the plot and composition.

The scene of the plot is laid . near Boston, and the character of the widow is typical of the real down east Yankee widow who keeps a boarding house to accomobate the society people of Boston, who spend the summer in frolicing at leasure on the beach. We understand that the parrangements have been perfected for an early performence of this important work in this city.

The following story was related this morning to a SENTINEL reporter by Mr. Albert C. Warren, the defendant having "exposed" him, and refused to in an assault and battery case in Justice Pratt's court, and the plaintiff in two other cases that were entered on the docket in Justice Greenebaum's attorney's giving up the case. office yesterday.

Warren claims that he has been shamefully treated, and the circumassault and battery case referred to went against Warren, and he has been payment he was committed, but, through the kindness of the officer into whose charge he was handed, the reporter was allowed to interview Warren before he was placed in confinement:

THE STORY.

Last March a man named Albert Ind., and soon afterwards became acquainted with Mr. Tinkham, of the firm of Tinkham & Matthews, attorney at law. Warren told Tinkham that and battery, and fined, as above he had a wife living in Connecticut stated. from whom he wished to get a divorce. Mr. Tinkham introduced Warren to his partner, Mr. Matthews, and, on or about the first of May, Warren and a provoke case, Warren vs. Matthews. Matthews held a business interview.

Matthews asked his client upon what grounds he could apply for a divorce, and Warren replied, on the ground of adultery.

"Five years ago, but I have resided some time in Connecticut since then. I came to Indiana the second time in July, 1879, and have lived in the state ever since."

"How long have you been in the state, altogether during the last five

"About two years and a half." "When did you first come into Allen county? "Last fall. I left it again, though, and come back in March." The law required that the plaintiff in a divorce case should have lived two years in the state and six months in the county, and to produce two house-holders and freeholders to swear that such had been the case.

Matthews, however, said that by June he would be able to proceed with

A few days after this, Warren met Matthews on the street, and the latter said that the suit had been entered all right, and that he (Matthews) had 'worked it slick," to keep it out of the papers. Warren saw Matthews again on the 28th of May, and paid him some more money, but not enough to satisfy the attorney, who got Warren to tear up the old receipt, and gave him a re-ceipt to date, instead. Warren has this receipt withhim now, and showed it to THE SENTINEL reporter. The following is a copy:

FORT WAYNE, May 28, 1880.
Received from Albert C. Warren, the sam of $16.25 (sixteen dollars and twenty-five cents) as attoiney fees for a divorce case for said Albert C. Warren.

TINKHAM & MATTHEWS,

Just after this, Warren was taken ick, and was placed in the St. Joseph hospital, where he remained till near the end of August, under the care of Dr. Gregg. Being anxious for his divorce case to come off, he left the hospital before he was able to walk more than a few steps at a time. After recovering strength Warren went to Wabash to work. Three weeks ago, last night, he returned to Fort Wayne. He saw Matthews, and told him his case must be pushed.

THE AGED.—Mental and physical debility of the aged begins with loss of appetite and sleep. These two potent causes of premature and rapid decline above their origin in Defective NUTRITION and IMPOVERISHED BLOOD. All other aliments may be warded off if these be restored to a condition of shealth. To accomplish this beneficent purpose, MALT BUTTERS are superior to all other forms of matt and medicine. They are rich in bone and fat-producing materials. forms of malt and medicine. They are rich in bone and fat producing materials. They vitalize with new life the process of digestion. They dissolve and assimilate every article of food, thereby enriching and strengthening the blood. They feed the brain as well as the blood, banishing nervousness, melaucho y and sleeplessness. For every form of deblity of both mied and body of the aged, MALT BITTERS are the purestand safest restorative in medicine.

TERS are the purestand salest restorative in medicine.
